This modern icon is acrylic on canvas and is inspired by a medieval fresco. By 2020 i only had a fairly faded photocopy of the original so my initial draft and details guided the remaining work i did. In line with my modern icon series I re-envisioned the original work by changing to varying degrees the context of a Byzantine icon.

Characteristics of Icon Art. Diverse Media Although todays icons are most closely identified with wooden panel painting, in Byzantium they could be painted (or sculpted in shallow relief) from a wide variety of media, such as marble, ivory, mosaic, gemstone, precious metal, enamel, or fresco painting. Early icon painters tended to use encaustic paint, which employs hot beeswax as a binding
