Miam Miam Dodo Camino Franc

Miam Miam Dodo is published in France by Editions du Vieux Crayon. Their original guide follows the GR-65, the Chemin de Saint-Jacques-Compostelle (the Camino de Santiago de Compostela, or Saint James Road), from Le Puy-en-Velay to St-Jean-Pied-de-Port. Since then, they have added other guides describing several of the popular routes in France.

This is important as more and more pilgrims are doing this Camino and facilities are growing and changing. It is basic: "Miam-miam Dodo" is French baby-talk for "Yum-Yum Sleepytime" and that is their orientation, not the religious or tourist sites (for that, John Brierly's guide is better for the English speaker.)

The traditional route has been replicated by a marked pathway or Grandes Randonnée (GR). The Way of Arles is the GR653, and there is an accompanying guide book put out by the French Walking Club, the Fédération Française de la Randonnée Pédestre, commonly known as the FFRP (see Maps and Guides).. There is also an alternative marked track, very similar to the GR653 but not identical
