'The first example of non-fiction, the text that underlies the entire discipline of history ... it is above all a treasure trove' Tom Holland. One of the masterpieces of classical literature, The Histories describes how a small and quarrelsome band of Greek city states united to repel the might of the Persian empire. But while this epic struggle forms the core of his work, Herodotus' natural curiosity frequently gives rise to colourful digressions - a description of the natural wonders of ...

Penguin has produced a good edition of Tacitus' 'Histories' which details the events of 69/70 AD, the so-called "Year of Four Emperors". It picks up after the death of Nero with Galba in Rome. Although most of the events surrounding the brief rise of Vindex in Gaul are absent, they were presumably discussed in the now-lost end to Tacitus' 'Annals'.
